

We invite you to apply for the Institute for Islamic, Christian, and Jewish Studies

Emerging Religious Leaders Intensive

About the Intensive

The Emerging Religious Leaders Intensive (ERLI) is a week-long residential immersion experience in interreligious learning and dialogue for Christian, Jewish, and Muslim students training for leadership roles. ERLI fills a key gap in seminary education as few institutions offer such in-depth interreligious learning through study and experiences.

Details

- June 2–6, 2024.
- Pearlstone Center, Reisterstown MD.
- Program, room, and board costs covered by ICJS.

What to Expect

- Engage in rigorous interreligious learning (lectures, small group study, and offsite experiences).
- Learn how religious communities read, interpret, and embody sacred traditions.
- Develop lasting friendships.
- Potentially earn course credit.*

How to Apply

Contact your school's ERLI coordinator or email info@icjs.org.

Not guaranteed, but we will work with your institution to help you receive credit.*

The future of our religious communities depends on religious leaders who will be able to provide leadership in a religiously diverse world.

To learn more, visit icjs.org/emerging-religious-leaders or click below.

LEARN MORE